ER 2016 will be held in Gifu

(<http://www.gifucvb.or.jp/en/>), a suburb area of Nagoya, located in the center of Japan. Gifu is easily accessible both domestically and for travelers coming from abroad. Gifu Railway Station can be reached by local train in 20 minutes from Nagoya, 1 hour from Central Japan International Airport (CENTRAIR, the third largest airport), 2 hours from Tokyo, and 1 hour from Osaka, 40 min from Kyoto by train. Gifu is blessed with an environment full of natural beauty; the Nagara River is running through the center of the city.

It is a historical city with Gifu Castle, a central landmark in the history of 16th century. The average temperature is 11.9 degrees Celsius in November.

Conference Venue

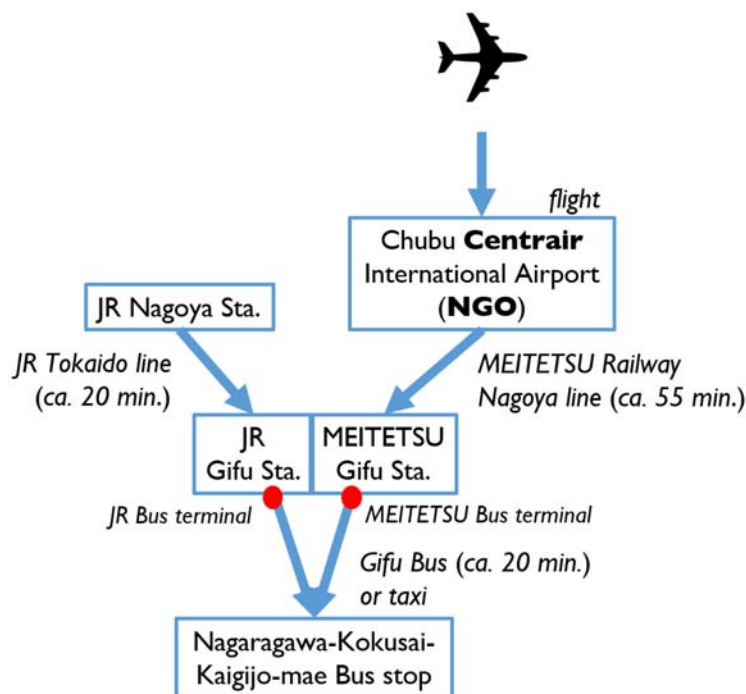

The conference site is International Convention Center in Gifu (Nagaragawa Convention Center) (<http://www.g-ncc.jp/e-framepage.htm>), and it is located by Nagaragawa river. It was designed by Tadao Ando, a famous Japanese architect, and constructed in 1995. A part of Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) meeting was held in 2010 and Cabinet ministers related to industries from Asia-Pacific countries came to the center. Because of its location and having an observation deck at the front electric-movable door in a international conference room, visitors can always have very beautiful scenery of Gifu nature, Nagaragawa River and Kinka Mountain.
